LUNA PARK READY FOR BIG OPENING

Final Touches Being Added to Summer Resort.

HILL CHANGED TO VALLEY

Management Perfects Arrangement's for Ample Transportation Facilities. New Cars Soon to Arrive.

The offices of Manager George E. Gill of Washington Luna Park and of Henry E. Warner, press representative, were moved yesterday from the Washington, Alexandria and Mt. Vernon railway building to the park, and will hereafter be located at the entrance, under the tower to the left of the arch.

For the present the office of W. C. Lit-For the present the office of W. C. Little, excursion manager, will remain in the railway company's building, where applications for picnic and special days will be received and acted upon.

Work on the great enterprise of Frederick Ingersoll is being pushed to completion with all the rapidity possible, and Manager Gill said this morning that everything would be in shape for the opening on May 28.

Built City in a Valley.

There has been a great amount of detail work in connection with this building of a city in a valley where there was once a hill. The hill had to be removed, in the first place, and the valley built with sod and vari-colored flowers. Then the buildings, from the chutes and circle swing and the along the broad Trail, had to be put up substantially, and that work is still under way. There is a big contract in making water connections with the Potomac river, and an extra force of men, is at work on the laying of pipes. This connection will supply an immense quantity of water to fill the chutes pool, the scenic river and lead to all the buildings.

This morning an extra gang of workmen went to work on the bridge loop, which will connect with the main line and enable the company to discharge and take on passengers with the least possible delay, and with all danger of accident eliminated. All the available rolling stock of the company will be put into service for the park purposes, and there will be sixteen additional forty foot cars, which will be here in time for the opening. If necessary, the rolling stock will be further augmented. It is planned now to run the line on a three-minute schedule, which will make it possible to handle an immense crowd from early afternoon until the closing at 11:30 minute schedule, which will make it possible to handle an immense crowd from early afternoon until the closing at 11:30 o'clock at night. A system has been arranged for loading passengers at the gate to prevent crowding, and no overloading of cars will be permitted.

A spring back of the dancing pavilion and dining hall will be one of the attractions. When the work of building the park was begun, no especial attention was paid to the spring. A few days later, however, one of the workinen who had suffered with rheumatism for years told Constructor Henderson that his rheumatism had disappeared, and attributed it to copious patronage of the spring. An investigation was at once set on foot, and a chemist is now analyzing the waters to determine whether or not they have some curative powers which had not been suspected. The analysis will be placed on a handsome bronze tablet by the side of the spring for the information of those who drink from its waters.

A large number of special days have been arranged, the details of which are now under consideration. Among them is the Alexandria Day, when speakers from that city will divide time with a special musical and entertainment program. Among the special dates are numerous athletic events, from Washington and other cities, for which the recreation grounds are being put in trim.

Dogs Distinguisated Themselves.

Chief among the dogs used last night was "Baby Girl," a white and tan fox carched a rat. "Baby Girl" was busy as a bee last night, but she still has scars all over her body as the result of coming in contact with the redhot coals in the furnace. The other dogs were "Litfrom its waters.

DIED.

PRINDLE — GILBERT H. PRINDLE was born in New York, February 14, 1839. At the age of two years his father moved to Norwich, Conn. He attended school in Poultny, Rutland county, Vt., until he attained the age of eighteen, when he entered the East India service and served there until 1881, when he gave up his position in Manila and came to the United States and at once entered the service. He enlisted in Company H. Second United States Sharpshooters, known as Budens. He served in the army until he was wounded at battle of Rappahannock. After recovering from the effects of his wounds, he was attached to the United States Sanitary Commission until he received an appointment in the Second Auditor's office, in 1883, where he served until January, 1895, when he received an appointment as acting master's mate, United States navy, where he remained until June, 1897, when he was honorably discharged, with the thanks of the Secretary of the Navy, Hon. Samuel Mills. He again entered the service, in 1879, and held a good position at League Island navy yard until 1875, when he resigned to enter commercial pursuits, being the inventor of the celebrated peg upholstery and dupting frame. He had the sole control of the United States for fourteen years. He was also the inventor and operating table, which me just had granted him a few months since. Mr. Prindle was ex-lieutenant commander of Naval; a member of Army and Navy Legion; was a member of G. A. R.; was quartermaster of the Philadelphia division of the Red Cross during the flood at Johnstown, Pa. At the time of his death he was a member of U. S. Grant Post, G. A. R., No. 6, Washington, D. ### Rat Catchers' Gory Work At the Geodetic Survey

Army of Ferrets Battle to Death With Big Rodents.

DOGS USED IN SLAUGHTER

Task of Clearing Buildings Will Keep Barclay Brigade Busy Eight Days.

Rats to the right of them, rats to the left of them, rats in front of them, or charged the Barclay brigade! When the cloud of battle cleared away at the Coast and Geodetic Survey last night between sixty and seventy-five rodents as big as cats, lay limp and lifeless on the floor. There are others however, still chewing on the official records stored in the several buildings used by the department, and the war of extermination will be continued to

The Barclay brigade is composed of fifty African and English ferrets, half a dozen blood-thirsty fox and bull terriers, Clarence Barclay, called the "greatest rat catcher of the age," and Charles Lyles and Noble Posey, two colored men who have been styled "the human rat catchers."

That the entire rat family was not exterminated last night is no fault of the Barclay brigade. Rats were killed in every conceivable manner and so one every conceivable manner and so quickly that death must have been almost painless to each one of the rodents. They were bitten to death by ferrets; shaken to death by dogs; shot with rifles; jammed against the wall with iron bars; and some had their brains beaten out by hand.

An Army of Rodents.

For the past few months the Coast and Geodetic Survey buildings have been overrun with rats. An official investigation disclosed the fact that they came gation disclosed the fact that they came from the numerous buildings which were torn down to make way for the new About 4,000 rats, it is estimated, migrated buildings during the wee sma' hours of the night and have their homes there now. The clerks have missed their lunches on countless occasions, and in many instances pay rolls and other official records have been eaten by the rats.

E. L. Barclay, who has hundreds of ferrets and scores of expert rat catching dogs, got a good start last night in the work of cleaning out the vermin. He has "hunted" many of the Government buildings, and those few rats which were not killed by the ferrets, got a glimpse of the bloodthirsty little fellows and became so frightened that they probably have not stopped running yet.

they probably have not stopped running yet.

Ferrets are savage litte animals, resembling minks, and weighing about lifteen ounces. Mr. Barclay uses two species, the albinos, which are purewhite, with pink eyes and very bushy tails, and the brown ones, which have beady black eyes and are more feroclous. Mr. Barclay says these little animals have become as docile as kittens so far as human beings are concerned, but whenever they scent a rat they cannot be held back until the rodent is dead.

Dogs Distinguished Themselves.

Lee," "Tippe-canoe," "Belle" and "Busy Izzy," Several days ago Barciay signed a contract to rid the Coast and Geodetic contract to rid the Coast and Geodetic Survey of every rat in ten days. On Tuesday night his corps of rat catchers visited the several buildings to get the lay of the land. Last night his son, Clarence Barelay, armed with his ferrets, dogs, rifles, helpers, electric torches and tongs, went to the building near C street southeast and began operations.

The little ferrets were taken out of Then he lurched over to Maurice Rose, a bookmaker, and in an excess of his own peculiar brand of humor, shouted: "You're one of these Americans, and I at eyou all. Take your at off to me." "You're not very big," said Rose retell, "so I'm going to spank your face with my hand open, and I'm going to do it good." And he did. Now Mr. Welford is sorry he spoke.

The brigade will "hunt" the Coast and Geodetic Survey buildings for eight nights more, and seal up every rat hole with tin plates.

On May 25 Mr. Barclay's gang will take up the task of clearing the basement of the City Postoffice. Mr. Barclay is also negotiating with the superintendent of other Government buildings to rid the places of rodents.

Dallas Welford, English Actor, Made Disparaging Remarks About Yankee Eagle and Received Trimming.

NEW YORK, May 17 .- It is not safe to call the American eagle names along Broadway, and Dallas Welford, the little English actor who is playing in "Mr. Hopkinson," is now prepared to admit the truth of this proposition.

Early this morning Mr. Welford recited a monologue in the Hotel Metro pole, the burden of which was his con tempt for Americans. "Americans a bloody lot of fools, and I'll make them kneel down to me," he concluded. Then he lurched over to Maurice Rose,
